UNITY OF ACTION. There is no doubt a large majority of the voters of Tennessee are unfrom the Columbia Herald and Mail:

from the Columbia Herald and Mail:

All our people who are opposed to Radicalism should now begin to organize. Our organization should be perfect in every county and district. The Radicals are thoroughly organized. As a matter of fact in Tennessee the Radicals are in a hopeless minarity, but for our own want of organization. If the opposition were as well organized, we could carry the State at the next election by an overwhelming majority. The Radicals could be beaten in every county this side of the mountains, but we must organize. It is folly to think of doing anything without organization. It is as idle as to think of routing a well trained, equipped and organized army of ten thousand by throwing against it twenty thousand disorganized individuals. As the organization of an army begins with the organization of a company, and then the organization into regiments, brigades, divisions, corps, and then finally into an army, so we must begin to organize in preclincts and county, then organize the counties and districts, and then the State. These organizations must control in all the local elections. We can not act independently and as individuals in local elections, and hope to unite and act as a party in the State and national elections. We have too often witnessed this hope end in shameful defeat. The Herald and Mail is for complete and perfect organization, and will support the regular nominees. No man has a right to aspire to office, but has no right to disorganize the party in local elections that may gain some petty office. Such ambition should not be tolerated. Every aspirant to an office should submit his claims to a convention of his party, and abide its determination. If we want a well-organized and effective army, the companies must be thoroughly organized.

These are wise words of warning,
